

Pacific Action sail systems - for Kayaks & Canoes

Pacific Action® sail systems

- sail rigs for sea kayaks, sit-on-top kayaks and canoes

... a new paddling dimension

Pacific Action sail systems are a uniquely versatile sail design, which has received international patents and a design award.

Pacific Action sails were developed by kayak enthusiasts to enhance the paddling experience and are manufactured by On Top Down Under; established in 2001, in Castor Bay, Auckland, New Zealand, - the doorstep to the Hauraki Gulf and a paddling Mecca. On Top Down Under now services our Distributors, Dealers and Web-based customers from sites in New Zealand and Australia. Our sails have established a formidable reputation with expeditions and adventure racing world-wide, are great for touring and a breeze to use. They have also proven themselves in long-haul expeditions from the North Pole to South America, and in trans-ocean crossings. Pacific Action sails are stable, reliable and easy to use. To raise the sail, unwrap from around the twin masts and release. The shock cord pulls the sail up, and our patented mast-step cam system maintains the optimum sail shape. Adjust the sail angle using the trimming line. Sail across the wind by locking the trailing mast back. Guaranteed reaching sail! On expedition-style sea kayaks our sails act like a jib-sail and will go to windward (visit our website: www.pacificaction.com to see video clips of our sails in action). The sail can be lowered just as easily. These sails integrate the wind with the sea. Paddling with a Pacific Action sail is like swimming with fins! The wind and the paddle combine, the result - a new paddling dimension....

- raise or lower the sail in seconds - adjust the sail shape and run across the wind
